Alaris Online Litigation

What is Alaris Online Litigation?

Alaris Online Litigation is a digital platform for document and exhibit management that you can use on any device, anytime. As a web-based portal, Alaris Online Litigation allows you to share documents to witnesses, counsel and court reporters on an iPad, PC or other device and control zoom, stamping and annotations live.

How It Works

Depositions don't have geographic limits and neither should you. Using a cloud-based document management system can save time, reduce shipping costs and allow you to add documents on the fly. Whether you use it to conduct remote depositions or to share documents in the same room, Alaris enables your team to easily work together to manage documents and stay on the same page.

ALARIS

Live Stream Exhibits for a Better Trial Experience

Alaris Online Litigation is a document repository and presentation platform that allows you to save time, track your notes and present evidence more effectively to the jury. As a private cloud-based platform, Alaris Online Litigation enables you to manage your exhibits from discovery to verdict so that you can easily store, share and present exhibits from anywhere in the world, on any device.

How It Works

With no downloads or technology hurdles, you can effortlessly present exhibits from an iPad or computer to the main display and judge, counsel and jury can watch directly from their individual devices.

The live presentation capability allows you to zoom, stamp, annotate and highlight documents live with your audience to ensure that everyone is actively participating and all of the details are clear. Notes and annotations are displayed on all of the connected devices in real time and also captured in the digital copy entered into evidence.

Digital   Interactive   Engaging   Results

Alaris Online Litigation allows you to leverage technology to directly engage your audience and make a more impressive and memorable trial experience. Whether you have 10 exhibits or 10,000, there has never been a better way to achieve results.
